

TUC Library Newsletter – April 2016

Each month the Library sends out a brief, online newsletter sharing any current general news and also highlights about different library resources and tools that may be of interest to you.

In between Library newsletters, look at the New in the Library page, or follow the Library on Facebook for current updates.

April Library Newsletter focuses on Public Health

April marks the National Public Health Week among other health awareness promotions. This month, in accordance with that theme, the TUC Library will highlight some resources on several current Public Health topics: Flint Water Crisis, Zika Virus and Diabetes.

The abbreviated list below contains a few select resources from databases to websites, podcasts to wikis for your toolkit. We hope these resources prove useful in your studies and scholarly endeavors. The full resource list \(5 pages long\) can be found by following this link to a PDF downloadable file.

Flint Water Crisis

American Public Health Association webinars and slides

APHA presents a 3-part webinar series on lead and public health with some recorded webinars from officials critical to the Flint Water Crisis.

Flint Water Advisory Task Force Final Report

This 116 page report published March 21st 2016 presents findings and recommendations to the Michigan state Governor related to the Flint water crisis.

CDC Center for Disease Control Lead website

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention created a dedicated Lead website containing general consumer information, as well as information for clinicians, policy makers and resources.

Zika Virus

Disaster Lit: Resource Guide for Disaster Medicine and Public Health

Disaster Lit is a grey-literature database of links to disaster medicine and public health documents available on the Internet at no cost. Documents include expert guidelines, research reports, conference proceedings, training classes, factsheets, websites, databases, and similar materials selected from over 700 organizations for a professional audience. This database grows daily and the TUC Library suggests you subscribe to either the RSS feed or Get Email Updates sent to your email address to stay current with the latest news.

CDC Center for Disease Control's Zika website

The CDC's own Zika focused website contains many features for staying up to date on developments with the Zika Virus. The homepage is divided into eight sections focused on disseminating Zika related information to the general public as well as health care providers. Some additional features include a Spotlight question, At A Glance area, which highlights the latest Zika updates occurring in the U.S and its territories, and the What's New section containing news bites regarding Zika. Of interest to the TUC

Community may be the Information for Specific Groups, focused on Health Care Providers, State Public Health Laboratories and State and Local Health Departments. If you want to keep updated, we suggest signing up to receive email updates.

Emerging Infectious Disease \(EID\) Journal

The EID highlights Zika with published articles since 2007. The EID is an online open access journal published by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The journal is peer reviewed and ranked 3rd out of 78 infectious disease journals in the 2015 Impact Factor. The journal through a partnership with Medscape LLC offers CME continuing medical education units on select articles. It also contains a section on the journal website for Podcasts. Sign up for a free online subscription using your email address or get an RSS automatic update or subscribe to Journal.

Diabetes

Centers for Disease Control \(CDC\) and Prevention Diabetes

This website from the CDC has lots of information for clinicians, students and the consumer. Sections that may be of interest to the TUC community are the Research, Resources and Publications areas. Highlights in the Research section includes research studies and data on what other federal agencies is doing Diabetes related research. Areas of interest in Resources and Publications section include Fact Sheets, Reports and Publications, Features & Spotlight articles and a glossary. ## PsychiatryOnline Complimentary Book of the Month

Autism and Other Neurodevelopmental Disorders

Edited by Robin L. Hansen, M.D., and Sally J. Rogers, Ph.D.

The accelerating advancement in research in neurodevelopmental disorders—including autism spectrum disorders, attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder, learning disorders, and more—has enormous implications for clinical practice. This title provides clinicians with up-to-date information on the impact these advances have on the standard of care in the range of disorders commonly encountered by both primary and subspecialist physicians. Replete with tables, illustrative figures, key points, and suggestions for further reading, Autism and Other Neurodevelopmental Disorders helps clinicians meet the challenge of providing the most up-to-date and effective care for their patients.

The TUC library has a number of electronic, print and eBook resources on Autism available. Follow this link to the Library Catalog and do a search for “Autism”.

Focused Books of Interest

Available or on order in the Library are the two books mentioned by Dr. Robert Lustig in his Research Day presentation: Fat Chance; beating the odds against sugar, processed food, obesity and diseases and on order: Fat Chance Cookbook; more than 100 recipes ready in under 30 minutes to help you lose the sugar and the weight.

The Library has also recently added several books on mindfulness including the following titles by Dr. Jan Chozen Bays, a pediatrician who is also a teacher of Zen Buddhism and one of the founders of the Great Vow Zen Monastery near Portland, Oregon:

Mindfulness on the go; simple meditation practices you can do anywhere;

How to train a wild elephant and other adventures in mindfulness

Mindful eating; a guide to rediscovering a healthy and joyful relationship with food.

Other books on the topic recently added to the Library collection are: Mindfulness in plain English by Bhante Henepola Gunaratana and Urban Mindfulness by Jonathan Kaplan.

For those of you who are fans of StoryCorps and books by its founder David Isay, the Library has available in the Leisure Collection his just published new book; Callings: the purpose and passion of work. The Library also has his earlier book, Listening is an Act of Love and his 10th anniversary volume Ties that Bind; stories of love and gratitude from the first ten years of StoryCorps.

All his books consist of interviews conducted as part of the national StoryCorps Project. The stories that participants relate are wonderful and uplifting and are described as a “celebration of American life.” Each “story” is short so one can make time to read his books even when one is very busy!

Library Workshop on EndNote 7

On April 20th the TUC Librarians held a Library Workshop on EndNote 7 the Basics (desktop) for those new to the Citation Management software. Faculty and students attended the workshop and learned to create, format and organize citations for papers and publications as well as developing a personal library of references. If you have any follow-up question about the workshop or would like to be notified about the next EndNote workshop please contact any TUC librarian or visit the TUC Research Guide on EndNote on the library webpage.
